TWO-DAY PIVOTAL RESPONSE TREATMENT (PRT)® LEVEL I CERTIFICATION WORKSHOP

Our two-day Pivotal Response Treatment (PRT)® training provides a strong a strong knowledge base of PRT® research and methodology. This workshop is a lecture style training with a focus on video examples to demonstrate the application of each PRT® procedure. Content typically covered includes; Characteristics of Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD), History and Development of PRT®, PRT® service delivery model, delineation of pivotal areas and the corresponding interventions (i.e., motivation, responding to multiple cues, self-initiations, and self-management), motivational procedures of PRT® for teaching social-communication (including child attention and clear instructions, maintenance tasks, child choice, contingent reinforcement, reinforcement of communicative attempts, direct and natural reinforcement, types of opportunities for evoking language, creating learning opportunities in the natural environment), facilitating social interactions with typically developing peers, self-management, behavioral flexibility, Functional Behavior Assessment (FBA), and motivational academics. Case vignettes, group practice, and other hands-on exercises are often incorporated, and a question and answer period is included; allowing for participants to engage in a dialogue with trainers and receive individualized support. Attendees of the two-day training are automatically certified in PRT® at Level I: Introductory Awareness of PRT Research and Methodology.
